Based on a thick disco beat 'Sun Has Gone' is, in Jacob's words, "a bubbly funk anthem for the lost kids of this earth. It's also a tribute to the mother of my daughter, a whirlpool of dire straits, prescription pills and insomnia. About childhood memorabilia, the boredom that comes from feeling like a vampire sucked the fun out of your day, about feeling grateful that someone you love is there for you when everything else is going wrong, about appreciating those around you."
